

Creative connections with nature

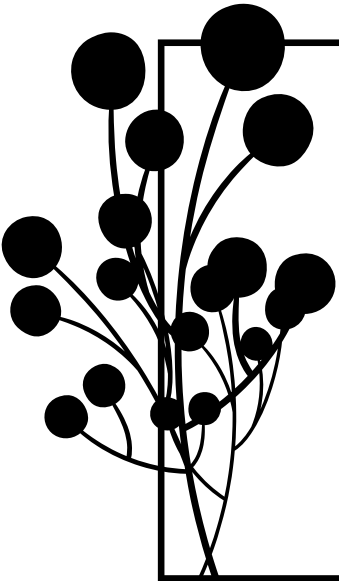

Philip Bunting

Explore and be inspired by the local environment using picture books by author / illustrator Philip Bunting.

This activity has been designed to complement this particular Philip Bunting book series. Using a little creativity, add some personality and bring plants and objects to life through the addition of eyes. Hook students into creating stories, artworks, illustrations, short movies or posters to share with others and help build empathy towards caring for local environments.

Creative Connections with Nature

What did you observe?
Describe what you noticed.

Now what can you create?

Be inspired. What can you write, draw or make to creatively connect with the environment and share with others.

So what is important to you here?
What happened when you added eyes to trees and plants?
